CORPORATE GYM MEMBERSHIP POLICY

POLICY CONTROL & INTERPRETATION

This document should be read together with the employee enrolment form, payroll-deduction authorization, the applicable corporate membership communication, and the Service Provider's then-current terms, privacy policy, and code of conduct.

POLICY OBJECTIVE

Hinduja Renewables Energy Private Limited ("HREPL" or "the Company") is committed to supporting the health and overall wellbeing of its employees.

Under the HREPL Moves initiative, eligible employees may voluntarily enroll for selected fitness memberships offered by Curefit Services Private Limited, operated under the cult.fit brand ("Service Provider"), at preferential corporate rates.

This benefit is intended to facilitate access to fitness and wellness services. It does not constitute medical advice, medical treatment, health insurance, an assurance of physical fitness, or a guarantee concerning the safety, suitability, quality, availability, or outcome of any fitness activity or facility.

SCOPE & APPLICABILITY

This policy applies to employees of HREPL who:

- meet the eligibility conditions communicated by the Company;
- voluntarily opt to enroll under the programme;
- provide the required information, declarations, and consents;
- authorize the applicable payroll deductions; and
- comply with this policy and the Service Provider's applicable terms and conditions.

Enrolment is voluntary. An employee's decision to participate or not participate will not affect employment, compensation, performance assessment, career progression, or access to other employment benefits.

ELIGIBLITY

The programme will be available only to:

- active employees on the rolls and off the rolls of HREPL;
- employees located in a city or location where the selected membership is available;
- employees who complete enrolment within the communicated enrolment window; and
- employees who provide all required information, declarations, consents, and payroll-deduction authorization.
- Employees currently not on notice period

The Company may define or revise eligibility by employee category, location, membership type, enrolment window, budget availability, or other objective business criteria.
Contractors, consultants, trainees, interns, family members, dependents, former employees, and other non-employees will be eligible unless expressly included through a written communication issued by HREPL.

NATURE OF BENEFIT

Eligible employees may purchase an approved cult.fit membership through HREPL at the corporate price applicable to the selected membership, city, location, and subscription period.

1. The employee becomes an individual member or end user of the Service Provider after activation.
2. Access to centres, classes, services, and facilities is governed by the selected membership and the Service Provider's rules.
3. The employee may use the cult.fit application or other designated platform to view, book, use, or manage the membership.
4. The employee must independently review and accept the Service Provider's terms of use, privacy policy, code of conduct, centre rules, booking conditions, and other applicable policies.
5. Services outside the corporate offering may be charged separately by the Service Provider.

ENROLMENT PROCESS

Employees wishing to participate must complete the designated enrolment form or process within the prescribed timeline. The employee must:

- select the available membership type and preferred location or city;
- submit accurate and complete personal information;
- provide informed consent for collection and sharing of personal data;
- accept the medical and physical-fitness declaration;
- accept the payment, cancellation, refund, transfer, and recovery conditions;
- authorize payroll recovery in accordance with this policy;
- review the Service Provider's relevant terms and policies; and
- complete any additional activation steps required by the Service Provider.

Submission of an expression of interest or enrolment request does not guarantee activation. Membership will be activated only after completion of the required process and confirmation by HREPL or the Service Provider.

PERSONAL DATA COLLECTION & SHARING

For enrolment, activation, administration, support, verification, payment reconciliation, and management of the membership, HREPL may collect and share necessary employee information with the Service Provider and its authorized service partners. Depending on operational requirements, this may include:

- employee name and identification number;
- official or personal email address, where required;
- mobile number;
- gender, only where required for the selected service;
- residential address, only where operationally necessary;
- City and preferred fitness-centre location;
- selected plan and subscription period;
- payment or payroll-deduction status; and
- other information reasonably required to activate or administer the membership.

HREPL will seek to collect and share only information reasonably required for the stated purpose.

EMPLOYEE CONSENT FOR PERSONAL DATA

PARTICIPATION & USAGE INFORMATION

Where contractually agreed and legally permissible, the Service Provider may provide HREPL with limited programme-level information such as enrolment numbers, activation status, aggregate participation, overall usage frequency, service availability, and information needed for payment reconciliation or programme administration.

HREPL will not use gym attendance, rankings, workout frequency, activity levels, health indicators, or similar participation information to assess an employee's performance, attendance at work, promotion, compensation, career progression, or continued employment.

HREPL should ordinarily receive aggregated or anonymized information unless employee-level information is indispensable for administration and the employee has provided specific consent.

MEDICAL & FITNESS DECLARATION

By enrolling and using the membership, the employee confirms that:

- Participation in fitness or wellness activities is voluntary.
- The employee has considered their health, physical condition, medical history, and ability to participate.
- To the best of the employee's knowledge, the employee is medically and physically fit to undertake the activities selected.
- The employee has no known condition, injury, impairment, restriction, or other reason that would make participation unsafe.
- Where there is any doubt, pre-existing condition, recent illness, injury, pregnancy-related consideration, or medical restriction, the employee will obtain advice and clearance from a qualified medical practitioner before participating.
- The employee will accurately disclose relevant information directly to the Service Provider or trainer where required for safe participation.
- The employee will stop an activity and seek appropriate assistance if pain, dizziness, breathing difficulty, discomfort, or other adverse symptoms occur.

HREPL does not assess, certify, or guarantee an employee's medical fitness. The employee remains responsible for deciding whether a particular activity, exercise, class, trainer, facility, or item of equipment is appropriate.

LIMITATIONS OF COMPANY RESPONSIBILITY

The employee understands that physical exercise and the use of gyms, fitness facilities, group classes, equipment, trainers, locker rooms, swimming facilities, and related services may involve inherent risks, including accidents, falls, equipment-related incidents, physical strain, injury, illness, aggravation of a pre-existing condition, property loss, or other unforeseen events.
To the extent permitted by applicable law, the employee acknowledges and agrees that:

- participation is entirely voluntary and at the employee's own discretion and risk;
- HREPL is only facilitating access to the corporate membership arrangement;
- HREPL does not own, operate, control, supervise, inspect, or manage the Service Provider's centres, trainers, equipment, application, classes, or services;
- HREPL makes no representation or warranty regarding the safety, quality, suitability, availability, continuity, results, or fitness for purpose of the services;
- HREPL is not responsible for injury, illness, accident, medical emergency, disability, death, loss, theft, property damage, or another incident arising during or after use of the services, except where liability cannot lawfully be excluded; and
- Operational or service-related claims should be raised directly with the Service Provider, without limiting any non-waivable right available under applicable law.

EMPLOYEE RESPONSIBILITIES

- comply with the Service Provider's terms, policies, safety instructions, and code of conduct;
- use the membership only for personal use;
- not transfer, sell, share, lend, or misuse the membership or login credentials;

- use equipment and facilities responsibly and follow trainer or centre instructions;
- wear suitable and appropriate clothing and footwear;
- behave respectfully towards staff and other members;
- protect personal belongings and report unsafe conditions or incidents;
- independently manage bookings, cancellations, attendance, and membership activity through the application;
- keep contact and profile information updated; and
- refrain from recording, copying, reproducing, or distributing proprietary digital content.
- All employees including women employees shall be responsible for their travel and safety arrangements, and the Company will not reimburse any travel, food or associated costs.

MEMBERSHIP CHARGES, PAYMENT & PAYROLL DEDUCTION

The Company will initially facilitate payment of the applicable membership fee to the Service Provider on behalf of the participating employee. The employee's payable amount, including any applicable taxes, platform fees, or other communicated charges, will be recovered through payroll deductions in three equal monthly instalments.

By enrolling in the programme, the employee expressly:

- authorizes HREPL to deduct the applicable membership amount from salary in six equal monthly instalments;
- acknowledges that payroll deductions will ordinarily commence from the payroll cycle communicated by the Company;
- agrees that minor differences caused by rounding may be adjusted in the final instalment; and
- accepts that the Company may alter, accelerate, defer, or otherwise modify the recovery schedule at its discretion, including for payroll-processing or administrative requirements.

If salary in any month is insufficient to recover the scheduled instalment, the outstanding amount may be recovered from subsequent salary payments, other amounts payable to the employee, or another lawful payment mechanism determined by the Company.

The employee's payment obligation will not be affected by non-usage, low usage, inability to secure preferred bookings, relocation, medical circumstances, dissatisfaction with the services, suspension due to the employee's conduct, or another change in personal circumstances, unless an exception is specifically approved in writing by the Company.

CANCELLATION, REFUND & TRANSFER

Once enrolment has been submitted to the Service Provider or the membership has been activated:

- the enrolment will ordinarily be non-cancellable;
- the membership fee and related charges will ordinarily be non-refundable;
- the membership may not be transferred, assigned, sold, shared, or provided to another employee or person;
- non-usage, low usage, medical circumstances, relocation, separation from employment, changed personal circumstances, or dissatisfaction will not automatically create an entitlement to cancellation or refund; and
- any exception will be subject to the Service Provider's applicable terms and written approval.

The employee's obligation to pay the applicable membership amount, including through payroll recovery, will continue notwithstanding failure or inability to use the membership, except where otherwise approved in writing by the Company.

CANCELLATION, REFUND & TRANSFER

SEPARATION FROM EMPLOYMENT & RECOVERY OF OUTSTANDING AMOUNTS

If employment with HREPL ends before all three payroll instalments have been recovered, whether due to resignation, termination, retirement, abandonment of service, or any other reason, the entire outstanding membership amount will become immediately due and payable.

The employee expressly authorizes HREPL, to the extent permitted by applicable law, to:

- recover the outstanding amount from salary for the final working month excluding any statutory liabilities or payments;
- adjust the outstanding amount against the full-and-final settlement or any other payment due from the Company; or
- require the employee to pay the outstanding amount directly to the Company within the timeline and through the payment method communicated by HREPL.

Where salary or full-and-final settlement is insufficient, the employee will remain liable to pay the balance directly to the Company.

HREPL may, at its discretion, accelerate recovery even where the employee remains employed. The Company may modify the recovery schedule or recover the outstanding amount through another lawful mechanism due to payroll, administrative, employment-status, prolonged-absence, notice-period, or other operational considerations.

The employee will not be entitled to a refund, waiver, or reduction merely because employment ends before completion of the membership period. Continued membership access after separation will be governed exclusively by the Service Provider's conditions.

TERMINATION OR SUSPENSION BY THE SERVICE PROVIDER

The Service Provider may suspend, restrict, or terminate an employee's membership or access to centres, the application, facilities, classes, or services in accordance with its applicable terms and conditions, including for breach of its terms, centre rules, code of conduct, safety requirements, payment conditions, or other applicable policies.

If the Service Provider suspends or terminates the employee's membership without refunding the membership fee to HREPL, the Company will not be responsible for refunding, reimbursing, waiving, or reversing any amount paid or payable by the employee. Any unpaid amount will continue to be recovered in accordance with this policy.

Where the employee believes exceptional circumstances justify a refund, waiver, reinstatement, or other remedy, it will be the employee's responsibility to raise the request directly with the Service Provider and provide any documents or information required.

Any refund remains subject to:

- the Service Provider's applicable terms and policies;
- the Service Provider's review and written approval;
- actual receipt of the refunded amount by HREPL, where HREPL made the original payment; and
- verification that no corresponding amount remains due from the employee.

HREPL is not required to fund a refund from its own resources, pursue or litigate an individual claim against the Service Provider, or guarantee that a request will be accepted.

If the Service Provider approves and remits a refund to HREPL, the Company may, after adjusting outstanding dues, taxes, charges, or previously unrecovered amounts, refund or adjust the eligible balance through payroll or another mechanism determined by the Company.

SERVICE RELATED CHANGES

Fitness centres, class schedules, trainers, equipment, service formats, operating hours, application features, and participating locations may be changed, suspended, restricted, or discontinued by the Service Provider. HREPL cannot guarantee continued availability of a particular centre, class, trainer, time slot, facility, uninterrupted application access, or a particular fitness or wellness outcome.

HREPL or the Service Provider may suspend or terminate access in cases including fraudulent enrolment, sharing or transfer of membership, misuse of facilities or the application, violation of safety requirements or centre rules, harassment or misconduct, unauthorized recording or reproduction of content, submission of inaccurate information, or breach of this policy or the Service Provider's terms.

No refund will be payable by HREPL where access is suspended or terminated due to the employee's breach or misconduct.

Service-related issues, including booking problems, centre access, trainer conduct, facility availability, equipment issues, application errors, and membership activation, should first be reported through the Service Provider's designated support channel.

Any accident, injury, safety incident, or medical emergency should immediately be reported to the relevant fitness centre and emergency services, where necessary. The employee should also notify HREPL HR for programme-governance and record purposes. Notification to HREPL does not transfer responsibility for operation of the centre or provision of fitness services to HREPL.

This programme is a discretionary employee benefit and does not form part of fixed or guaranteed compensation unless specifically stated otherwise in writing. It does not create a contractual entitlement to continued membership, reimbursement, a particular subsidy or price, a vested employment benefit, or an obligation on HREPL to renew the programme.

HREPL reserves the right to interpret, modify, suspend, replace, or discontinue the programme or this policy, subject to applicable law and existing contractual commitments.
The Company will review the arrangement periodically to ensure that employee wellbeing objectives, programme utilization, financial sustainability, legal and data-privacy obligations, and business requirements continue to be appropriately prioritised.
